Scott Cahill said, “The Love Burkina Faso Festival was planned for November, but civil unrest and a political coup necessitated that Andrew Palau and his team reschedule. The event goes forward this week and we are privileged to help make that possible. The work being done by Luis Palau, and continued by his son Andrew, is a critical ministry outreach in a country that is fighting an enormous battle against poverty, human trafficking, crime, disease, and illiteracy.”

Luis Palau added, “A nation will not be moved by timid methods. Today’s young people understand music and technology, but few have an understanding of what a life walked in faith can produce.”
