November 17, 2013 updates show that the Love Ethiopia outreach has already included more than 175 events reaching a quarter million people ranging from prisons to a private meeting with the recently appointed President of the Republic of Ethiopia, Mulatu Teshome.

Scott Cahill explains, "We love the City Serve projects that the Luis Palau Association organizes around the globe to help the poor and are honored to be one of their sponsors. This year's project in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia will, hopefully, continue as a positive influence on the country."

The Luis Palau Association began CityServe in Portland, Oregon with a mission to transform cities by way of a united, sustainable effort involving churches and cultural leaders. CityServe reaches cities around the world, uniting local governments and evangelical churches to tear down walls, de-bunk stereotypes, and attack today's toughest issues including human trafficking, street and gang violence, homelessness, poverty and health and wellness.
